Spring 1– Five Pillars of Islam

Spring 1 – The Five Pillars of Islam

The Five Pillars teach positive values that anyone can learn from, such as: kindness and generosity, self-control and patience, honesty and responsibility and care for others.

Reflecting on religious values helps people understand different beliefs and live peacefully with others.

Evaluate

The Five Pillars of Islam help Muslims feel they belong to the Muslim community.

Muslims around the world follow the same Five Pillars, which connects them to each other.

Belonging means feeling accepted, safe, and valued as part of a group.

People can belong to many different groups, such as: family, friendship groups, school, clubs or teams or religious communities

Belonging can give people: a sense of identity, support, comfort and shared rules, values, or traditions

Communicate

The Five Pillars of Islam are the five most important practices in a Muslim's life.

Shahada (Faith) - Believing in one God (Allah) and that Muhammad is His messenger.

Salah (Prayer) - Muslims pray five times a day.
